

Using sensory regulation toys

YPI guide

ALL ages, ALL conditions and ALL members of the family.

We provide activities and services for neurodiverse individuals and those with support needs who require a tailored sensory environment to play, develop and socialise safely.

Our founders created SensationALL to give families with complex needs access to sensory facilities and activities suited to their needs in a safe space where they feel they belong.

No confirmed diagnosis is required prior to attending as the diagnostic process can be lengthy and stressful, and we aim to give timely assistance for anyone with concerns about their loved one's development.

Many of our attendees have autism, ADHD, learning difficulties and developmental delay. Regardless of condition, they all struggle with communication, sensory processing, behavioural regulation and social interactions.

What we do:

Activities and social groups

- tailored to the sensory needs of attendees where they can play, learn and develop skills while making friends and having fun!

Practical and emotional guidance

- we teach coping techniques and strategies while building confidence, resilience and self-esteem.

Parent/carer services

- advisory consultations with experienced clinicians and regular family support groups.

Neurodiversity training and bespoke consultations

- for families, professionals and employers.
